

Dr. Angelo D. Moore, PhD, MSN, RN, NE-BC

Dr. Angelo D. Moore is the Director, Office of Health Equity (OHE), Duke Cancer Institute, where he provides leadership to achieve the overall Vision and Mission to improve community health by engaging community members, collaborates with the Associate Director and Assistant Director, Community Outreach, Engagement, and Equity while leading all outreach efforts and programs in the DCI community and across its Catchment Area, works with the DCI faculty, staff, stakeholders, and colleagues to lead the community-focused programs, serves as the community impact expert who provides staff support and allocates financial resources to advance projects, work collaboratively with all DCI units where such disparities are greatest, and engage community stakeholders and leaders to design and deploy interventions, promotes an organizational culture that values trust, commitment to the mission, scientific integrity, and professional and organizational growth, monitors and recommend interventions for minority accruals for DCI research studies, serves on multiple advisory committees and organizations focused on advancing health equity by reducing cancer disparities for historically marginalized and medically underserved populations such as the African American, LatinX, Asian American, Native American, Jewish, Muslim, LGBTQ+, refugee, and rural communities.

Dr. Moore leads the community-facing navigation program at Duke Cancer Institute that utilizes a longitudinal patient navigation multidisciplinary matrix model, which incorporates multiple patient navigation entities.

Dr. Moore serves on the American Cancer Society National Navigation Roundtable Steering Committee, America250 Health & Wellness Advisory Council, National Black Nurses Association Board of Directors, Advisory Council Cancer Coordination Control Early Detection Subcommittee, and numerous other committees.

Dr. Moore received his BSN in 1995 from Winston-Salem State University, his MSN in 2002 from Uniformed Services University of the Health Sciences, and his PhD in 2010 from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. He served 25 years in the U.S. Army and retired as a Lieutenant Colonel and has over 28 years of nursing experience in Medical-Surgical, Critical Care, and Primary Care Nursing as a Family Nurse Practitioner.

Dr. Moore has held multiple leadership positions including Charge Nurse, Nurse Manager, Commander, as well as multiple Executive Leadership positions such as Deputy Chief & Chief for the Centers for Nursing Science & Clinical Inquiry, and Chief Nurse of Education for the Fayetteville VA Medical Center which also included 8 Community-Based Outpatient Clinics throughout Southeastern North Carolina. He is a board-certified Nurse Executive.

Dr. Moore is also an Adjunct Associate Professor at University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill School of Nursing. He enjoys mentoring and teaching. He has numerous publications in peer-reviewed journals and presented podium presentations at local, regional, national, and international conferences. He is a member of several professional organizations and takes special interest in encouraging higher education and increasing and retaining the number of minority nurses and nursing students.

Dr. Moore was awarded the 2002 Distinguished Clinical Performance Award at the Uniformed Services University of the Health Sciences, 2004 Outstanding Military RN at Landstuhl Regional Medical Center, 2012 National Black Nurses Association Nurse Researcher of the Year, the 2012 University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill School of Nursing Graduate of the Last Decade Alumni Awardee, a 2013 Winston-Salem State University Alumni Achiever Awardee, and was inducted into the Order of Military Medical Merit in 2015. In 2019, the Uniformed Services University blog “Pulse” featured him in their “Black History Month Profiles: 20 Inspiring Uniformed Services University Alumni.” In 2021, he was awarded the Presidential Award from Duke University.

Dr. Moore will be inducted as a Fellow in the American Academy of Nursing (FAAN) in October 2023 and has been selected as a 2023 Great 100 Nurses of North Carolina.